

We had from the start the ambition to use dedicated referees. Unfortunately, we have only partly succeeded. So we have a head referee and one assistant referee. But we need help with writing the scores on the scores list.

The task to write down the scores that the head referee decides is divided among a group of three shooters. The task also includes to calculate the total result and to get it signed.

So, on Saturday every shooter with an odd start number (and on Sunday with an even start number) must stay behind and join this group. When one shooter joins the group, the shooter with the lowest start number is released.

The group decides within itself who will write scores. The others help the referees with observing hits and misses.

Write the scores on the scorecard, calculate the total score. Compare it to the monitor. And see to that the shooter signs his result.

To start up the competition and the in-line shooting we also need the help from the following persons. They write scores during startup.
